

“What’s New in the Fall of the Roman Empire?”

A Lecture Series Hosted by Michael McCormick, Chair, SoHP Steering Committee; Department of History

“The Genetic History of Plague: From the Stone Age to the 18th Century via the Roman Empire”

Johannes Krause

Director, Max Planck Institute for the Science of Human History, Jena, Germany

Thursday, February 16, 2017

5:30pm - 6:45pm

Barker Center, Thompson Room 12 Quincy Street, Cambridge, MA

Part of a new lecture series from the Initiative for the Science of the Human Past at Harvard.

Discoveries in paleoclimate science, genomics, and digital humanities are transforming our knowledge of antiquity: find out about the latest advances with SoHP. Visit our website: <http://sohp.fas.harvard.edu/>

SoHP
The Initiative for the Science of the Human Past at Harvard

Harvard University
Department of History

The Initiative for the Science of the Human Past at Harvard

Harvard University
Department of the Classics